IN SOCIETY.

THE dullness which follows the festive season surrounding the Christmas time is still very much in evidence, and the past week recorded but few events in the social world. Nevertheless, although few in number, some of them were of the most delightful nature, and those who enjoyed them appreciated more than ever the real value of the smaller and less formal. value of the smaller and less formal the east drive.

The matrimonial market of the smart steems to be decidedly at a standstill, and the little god whose business lies in that line may well exclaim, "Nothin' doin'."
